Takes Several Trolley Trips, Visits The Soldiers' Home and the Santa Catalina Islands.

Los Angeles and Suburbs

The next morning (Wednesday, having spent four days thereabout) a similar party in size mounted one of the many private trolleys that left that morning for the beaches. Due to the great rush at the station, partner and I joined to different parties and thus were separated throughout the day, with the exception of noon and a small part of the afternoon. It was easy to be separated, for hundreds of tourists were out that day on a similar tour.

The car left the Hill Street Station, there being other trolley concerns operating in the city from different stations, each doing a thriving business. Past dusty olive trees, through streets arched with the beautiful California Pepper, into Hollywood; this suburb of 6,000 people presented homes for the idealistic. Geranium hedges, instead of our flowerless shrub, densely grew and profusely bloomed about the lawns, on which were located the prettiest of pretty homes in any style of architecture, each one built after a different model. Dark green orange groves and the lighter shaded lemon were a fitting background for such homes as Morgan's or the Bartlett "Del Mar" and Stern's, the latter adorned with five acres of prime orange trees. A Carnegie Library surely found its way there amid building lots valued at $1,500, oil wells 2,000 to 5,000 feet deep, and squash farms of good size. Probably the greatest painter of flowers in the world, Paul de Long Pree, owned a mansion amid geraniums climbing the cedars on the lawn, decorated with palms galore. Then, above in sight.

The Soldiers' Home.

The very sight of the 700-acre park dotted with white haired blue coats sunning themselves among the Date Palms, Norfolk and Star Pines and flowers without end, awakened a lively interest. Every one was eager to enter the grounds and get all the information they could as they passed along. Three thousand seven hundred soldiers, none of whom had been transferred from the East, lived and worked, voted and related experiences of thrilling by-gone days. Three precincts allowed them voting opportunity, and even though old men, a great majority were young in thinking and still revered the hero of battle. This was clearly shown by 2,200 out of the 3,700 said to have voted for Roosevelt in his former campaign for the Presidency. Some worked outside and others inside, all being paid for such service rendered. The buildings were architecturally beautiful, but details must be overlooked, as many then were.

UNION SERVICES

Conducted by Lutheran, Reformed and Presbyterian Congregations. A fine example of Christian fellowship was given to Bedford last week, in the holding of union services by the united congregations of the Lutheran, Reformed and Presbyterian Churches.

The plans were prepared by the pastors of the churches, and were entered into most heartily by the members.

The results were gratifying, and show most clearly the delight and spiritual profit which flows from Christian fraternity.

The consensus of opinion of the worshippers, who engaged in these services, is best expressed in the words of the ancient Hebrew bard: "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

The meetings were opened, with the first services in the Reformed Church and Mr. Wicand as the preacher. Tuesday night in the same church with Mr. Illingworth making the address, who also spoke Wednesday night in the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Eyer preached the sermon on Thursday in the latter church and when the meetings were transferred Friday night to the Lutheran Church he was chosen to deliver the address there also.

From the first service on Monday, the attendance and interest increased each night, but the climax was reached in the final service held in the Lutheran Church Sabbath night.

When the hour for service came, the main audience room was taxed to its utmost capacity to accommodate the throng of worshippers. The sermon was preached by Prof. C. F. Sanders of Gettysburg, who was in Bedford, as the guest of Mr. Wicand, the pastor of the church.

The fraternal spirit shown at all these meetings was splendid and the members of the three churches, who joined in these union services, expressed themselves as being highly gratified with the result of this effort in Christian fellowship.

The success of the services was due, first, to the enthusiastic loyalty of the membership in their attendance from night to night upon these religious exercises. Then the willingness of the musical talent of the three churches to contribute their part of the exercises was delightful. Every service was featured with special music of excellent quality, which together with the fine congregational singing, under the direction of Prof. Koontz, made every session enjoyable.

The congregational singing was supported by an orchestra, selected from the churches, which was a feature of the meetings. Made up under the direction of Prof. Koontz, from the young men of Bedford, it rendered efficient service and was favorably commented on by all the worshippers.

The following is the personnel of the orchestra: Conductor, Prof. S. H. Koontz; violins, Cloyd Doty soloist, Louis Stiver, Ned Shuck, Lantz Knight; flute, Henry Illingworth; cornet, Alexander Russell; cello, William Pate; bass viol, Glenn Shoemaker; trombone, Frank Lessig.

The names of those who favored the services with special music are: Messrs. Fred Sammel, Milton Sammel, J. A. Wright, Arthur Russell, H. C. James, H. B. Cessna, D. C. Cessna, H. E. Wicand, W. A. Weissel, Lloyd Weissel, Mrs. S. H. Gump, Mrs. J. A. Wright, Misses Charlotte Jones, Maude Colvin, Ellen Morgart, Grace Stewart, Ethel Moore, Elizabeth Weissel and Maude Cessna.

Organist at Reformed Church, Glenn Shoemaker; organist at Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Fred Sammel; organist at Lutheran Church, Miss Grace Stewart.

Mrs. Amelia Hughes
Mrs. Amelia Hughes, widow of the late William Hughes, died at her home at Coalmont on Saturday, January 11, aged 80 years, eight months and 25 days. Her maiden name was Jeff and she was born in London, England. Three sons and eight daughters survive: Edward of Dudley, S. and William Hughes, of Central City, Ky., Mrs. L. Fleegal, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. J. Wright and Mrs. J. Brode, of Coalmont; Mrs. J. Fleegal of Saxton, Mrs. Edwards of Philadelphia, Mrs. Hasler of Altoona and Mrs. Kreiger of Portage. She is also survived by 111 grandchildren and a number of great-grandchildren.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. F. W. McGuire in the Church of God at Coalmont Monday morning, January 13. Interment was made in Fockler's Cemetery, Saxton.

NEW GARAGE FOR BEDFORD

L. D. Blackwelder Will Erect Modern Structure on Pitt Street.

L. D. Blackwelder, proprietor of the Union Garage, has purchased the Anderson property extending from the alley east of the Bedford House to the office of Dr. S. H. Gump along Pitt Street and extending south to the alley.

It is Dr. Blackwelder's intention to erect a modern garage, the front of which will be two stories high. The first floor will be taken up with offices, waiting rooms, etc., and the second floor will be used as a repair shop. The spacious building in the rear will be used for storing cars of tourists and local motorists.

If the business increases proportionately there will be need of the three garages this summer.

We congratulate Dr. Blackwelder upon the enterprise, which prompts him to build what is likely to be known as "Bedford Garage," which will be up-to-date in every particular.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Re-elects Directors and Officers of Last Year—Same Office Force.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Bedford was held on Tuesday when the former Board of Directors was elected as follows: A. B. Egolf, Patrick Hughes, Hon. J. H. Longenecker, E. A. Barnett, John P. Cuppett, of Bedford; Dr. Ed. L. Smith of Schellsburg and J. H. Snoberger of New Enterprise.

The Board of Directors organized by electing A. B. Egolf President and Patrick Hughes Vice President.

The courteous and efficient force of the bank was retained—H. B. Cessna, Cashier; J. A. Donahoe, Teller, and H. H. Miller, Bookkeeper.

The report shows that the deposits are about $550,000 and that the surplus and undivided profit account contains $75,000. The usual semi-annual dividend of four per cent was declared the first of the year.

Services in the M. E. Church

The evangelistic services, in the Methodist Episcopal Church are progressing nicely. The evening meetings, as well as the afternoon Bible readings, are largely attended, the latter being unusually helpful. The song services connected with the meetings are of a high order and are full of inspiration. They consist of solos, duets, quartets and congregational singing.

Rev. Parsons, who is in charge of the meetings, is an eloquent and forceful speaker, and reveals the Gospel of Christ in such a convincing manner that none cannot but believe. Quite a number have been converted, and prayers are being made individually and collectively for over one hundred persons, who have sent in their names with the request.

Those who have not yet taken advantage of this opportunity to hear Rev. Parsons and join in the song services should do so before the meetings close.

Cream Separator on Exhibition

In one of the show windows of the Metzger Hardware and House Furnishing Company there is on display a De Laval Cream Separator which is attracting considerable attention. The supply can, like the brook, seem to "go on forever," and its source of supply is the mystery.

The self lubricating system and the mechanical construction is shown by an illuminating device through glass panels.

It is an interesting exhibition and a visit to the store to see it is worth the while of all who are interested in dairying.

NO ICE HERE

Local Company Received Carload Yesterday.

The unusual weather up to this time has caused the supply in stock at the Bedford Ice and Cold Storage Company, at the time of closing down, to run out and all the natural ice has been consumed.

Until the arrival of a carload yesterday, which the Bedford I and C S. Co. had shipped here to take care of their customers none could be secured.

This action on the part of the company should be appreciated by the users of ice, as it will not be a paying investment for the company.

COUNTY S. S. CONFERENCE

Held Here on Monday—State Field Worker Present.

A most interesting and profitable meeting of the Executive Committee of the Bedford County Sunday School Association was held in the Lutheran parsonage, Bedford, last Monday.

Good representation from over the county was present. Mr. B. S. Ford, sythe of Dawson, a State Field Worker, met with the conference.

The results reported from the last tour of the county from the various districts are very gratifying.

It was decided that each district shall hereafter hold an annual convention just before the regular county convention, and at these conventions the district officers shall be elected to take office immediately after the county convention and thus bring all officers in the county into harmony.

A goal for the county was decided upon and is as follows:

Sixty-five schools each having Teacher Training Classes, using Graded Lessons and having one or more Registered Secondary and O. A. B. Classes.

Seventy-five schools each having Home Departments.

One hundred forty schools each having Cradle Rolls.

All schools teaching systematically Temperance and Missions.

Three hundred subscriptions to the Pennsylvania Herald.

Nine hundred accessions to the church from the schools.

Nineteen thousand scholars in the schools of Bedford County.

Two new departments were added. The Department of Missions under the Superintendency of Rev. H. E. Wicand.

The Department of Secondary Division under the Superintendency of M. H. Kramer.

These departments are also being added to the various district organizations and appointments of officers to have charge are being made.

SEEING AMERICA

The Woolskill Ranch presented a new view in agriculture, 3,000 acres being devoted to corn, beans, oats and English Walnut trees said to bear at the age of nine. A happy band of Kansas folks escorted by a trusted minister, revealed the western tourist's method of travel, especially among the ladies. This pastor of the home town congregation had led parties into the far West each summer for several years. It was this vacation time and pleasure time, eaching and perhaps a bit aggravating time; yet even though one of his party through sickness delayed the note of twenty, he seemed to wear the smile that bewitchingly enticed his followers to approach the breakers "just to see how far and not get feet wet." Of course, the results are evident.

Port Los Angeles with a mile of wharf; Santa Monica and its Camera Obscura; Venice, the most popular resort on the coast, the "Coney Island of the Pacific;" Manhattan Beach; Shakespeare Beach and Redondo Beach all had their interests and many, for this was the trip from Los Angeles to the sea, 36 miles along the ocean front, ten beaches and eight cities.

At Redondo Beach, the first port of entry for steamers south of Frisco, the largest Hot Salt Plunge Bath House in the world is located. One thousand three hundred fifty dressing rooms make it possible to handle 7,000 bathers at any time. Here I watched the lumber, masted vessels from Washington enter and unload the massive cargo. Here on the wharves it was easy to trip or slip due to the fishermen's nets or an outlay of the catch.

Three trolley parties visited the Moonstone Beach at a time. Fun was it to enter into competition with good will in finding some agate, water-opal, jasper or moonstone that would be cherished ever after as a rich legacy. Each incoming breaker brought a new field, and common but real diversion for those who just escaped a knee bath, the suddenness of which sent that shrill upper note in female voices along the line; but no one was hurt. It was some souvenir we were after, and having found three moonstones and a moss agate, the guide called "We're off" and the car began to move, as a warning.

The Venice of America held our party longest. Countless amusements produced an immediate segregation as the party left the car. Some rode the Scenic Railway at a seventy mile clip and received the "Real Sensation." Others patronized the tiny or miniature railroad, or strolled about the museums, searched for shells and sand dollars, fed curlew and sea gulls, at any rate found something that kept each one, except by chance, out of sight of a car-companion for more than an hour. Back to Los Angeles we went again, ready for another outing.

The Santa Catalina Islands. Thursday morning, and not a bit weary, but eager as the rest of the numberless tourists that crowded about the Pacific Electric, we secured passage to the islands in the Pacific.

Indefinite an hour and a half, San Pedro, the thescaport on the mainland, was reached. Enterprising water athletes of Philadelphia beckoned the waiting "trampers" to water. "Small change" in the water. At they might display their skill as spunky swimmers and "earn" a bit of pin money. Judging from the liberality of the on-lookers, little fortunes may have been collected by the agile amphibians, it being necessary to discharge mouthfuls of coins at frequent intervals.

The "Cabrillo" was ready for sail. Sea gulls followed in our wake even perching upon the ship as it started for the deeper water beyond the breakwater. Beyond the still water and schools of the California Flying fish (Cypselurus Californicus) sprung up before the bow of the vessel and moved in all directions as grasshoppers in the hay field before the mower. It was my first real sight of the kind. They seemed to be about 12 inches long and rarely rose higher than three or four feet from the water, or "fly" more than a few rods at a time. To study them was difficult, for one could not determine just whether the pectoral fins vibrated or merely quivered in obstructing the air, thus compelling one to believe they only sailed. The rapidly vibrating tails ceased as they left the water, and the pectoral and ventral fins spread. Darting through the water, they resembled the dragon fly, with equivalent swiftness they would suddenly rise and sail in a straight line, sometimes fall until touching the water the tail would again vibrate and up it would go to finish the course in a deflected curve and then a splash.

By noon the twenty-seven miles of water were spanned and myself in good condition. Here was a rugged island 22 miles in length, eight wide, rising 55,000 acres of hills two of which rose to the height of 2,000 feet. Deep canyons and ravines dissect the cactus covered surface so much so that it is almost impossible to find a plot of level five minutes beyond the landing. To this little speck in the Pacific is attached a bit of history. The year 1542, when Cabrillo with two caravels (La Vittoria and San Salvadore) marks its discovery. The islands were named after the latter vessel; but another noted pilot sailing into the bay on which Avalon is now built, on November 28, 1602, gave the name for the saint day of his arrival, Santa Catalina. The pilot was Sebastian Vizcaino. This sea farer described the natives as a well dressed race and living in spacious dwellings, and of more than ordinary intelligence in the manufacture of implements and musical instruments. Doubtless they were traders with the Indians of the mainland. It was handed down successively from the Mexican Government to Nicholas Covarrubias, to James Lick, (as a sheep ranch), to G. Shatto, to an English firm interested in the silver on the island and finally in 1892 the present owners, the Banning Company, secured its control and converted it into an ideal resort for the sportsman, the rich and the poor.

Everybody seemed to live at ease in this little town made up of a Greek Theatre, Club House, Aquariums, Curio Stores, Hotels and about 645 tents from which the names Island Villa and Canvas City were derived. No gaudy attire floated about in that atmosphere, although doubtless, there was aristocracy there but in the dormant state in the day time, the evenings presenting a different spectacle. We took a walk along the beach for some distance and noticed the extreme clearness of the water. After taking dinner, the crowds began to assemble on the boat landing in preparation for some sail in the glass-bottomed boats, many of which were anchored nearby, and for which dozens of solicitors were working that their employer's boat might be filled. This cruise out over the bay of Avalon was delightful to say the least, for at last, the much-talked-about Submarine Gardens, beautiful gardens of real plants beneath the sea, had been reached. These will be described the next time.

WORDS FROM HOME

Statements That May Be Investigated—Testimony of Bedford Citizens.

When a Bedford citizen comes to the front, telling his friends and neighbors of his experience, you can rely on his sincerity. The statements of people residing in far away places do not command your confidence. Home endorsement is the kind that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Such testimony is convincing. Investigation proves it true. Below is a statement of a Bedford resident. No stronger proof of merit can be had.

"Mrs. D. O. Smith, 234 W. Pitt St., Bedford, Pa., says: 'I willingly confirm all I said in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills, when I publicly recommended them some years ago. They brought prompt and permanent relief to one of my family who suffered from kidney trouble. I consider Doan's Kidney Pills worthy of the strongest endorsement.'"

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other. Jan. 17-2t.

Boost Pennsylvania!

The four great agricultural organizations of this State—the Board of Agriculture, the Livestock Breeders, the Horticulturists and the Dairy-men—all get together at Harrisburg next week (January 21-23), for their annual conventions and shows of corn, fruit and dairy products. Joint sessions three evenings, separate sessions in the day time, show open all the time! Some names famous in American agriculture are found on the long list of speakers. Among them: A. P. Sandies, Ohio's Secretary of Agriculture; W. E. Skinner, Secretary of the National Dairy Show; N. H. Gentry of Missouri, the great breeder of hogs, Dick Stone of Illinois, a noted sheepman and wit; Dr. Charles E. North of New York, Secretary of the New York Milk Committee; the Fullertons, of Long Island, who have solved the problem of direct marketing; and a host of others who discuss the various problems before our people. There will be demonstrations of many kinds, illustrated lectures, and a show of fruits, corn, dairy products, etc. The slogan is Boost Pennsylvania! Get out and help boost.

Ilder Trouble Causes Terrible Pains

After taking a trial bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which you forwarded to me, I purchased some from a local drug store and after using three dollar bottles I can truthfully say that I was cured of all the terrible pains I had in my back, side and head, caused by bladder trouble. I had the worst kind of kidney trouble and suffered so that I could not even stay in bed with the pain. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root made me feel just like a new person and I am glad to recommend it to anyone suffering as I did. Very truly yours,

MISS MARY ARDNER, 807 Washington St. Defiance, Ohio. Sworn to before me and in my presence subscribed by the said Miss Mary Ardner, this 16th day of July, 1909. F. L. Ray, Notary Public.

Bedford Gazette

ESTABLISHED IN 1805

S. A. VAN ORMER,
Editor and Publisher.

The Gazette is the leading newspaper of Bedford County and its circulation is far ahead of any of its contemporaries. As an advertising medium it is one of the best in this part of the state.

Regular subscription price per year $1.50, payable in advance. Card of Thanks, 50c; Resolutions, 1.00. All communications should be addressed to:

FRIDAY MORNING, JAN. 17, 1913.

COME OUT, BE FAIR!

We respectfully ask the editor of the Everett Republican to look at the bill for the paper he used in printing the last ballots and see if he didn't make a mistake in the price per pound.

WHY NOT BE FAIR?

In an editorial last week our contemporary, The Inquirer, by the use of figures specially selected, indirectly defends the County Commissioners in their having paid $242 for ballots which they could have bought for $135 had they allowed the print shops of the county to bid on the job.

This action on the part of our neighbor seems rather strange. Within two months that paper was taken charge of by the present editor and in his "greeting" editorial he said:

"It is needless to ask what the policy of The Inquirer will be. * * * We will stand with you when you are right and part with you when wrong."

This declaration of The Inquirer's determination to part with things wrong and uphold the right was hailed with delight by those who believe the business of the county should be done along business lines—as individuals would conduct their own affairs. Now it defends the paying of political debt by awarding contracts at exorbitant prices to papers that are willing to fight the battles of "the annex" and of "the gang." The time has been so short that in this winter weather the "funeral bake-meats" served when it sounded the death knell of corruption might easily "be served at the marriage feast" of The Inquirer with the old organization.

This change of heart leads one to question the truth of Hamlet's statement, "Frailty thy name is woman."

The Inquirer names the amounts paid to the papers of the county to prove that The Gazette got more of the work than its share. The figures are: it is true, taken from the Auditors' report, but they do not embrace all and they misrepresent the case. The Gazette's amount contained a 32-page paper book which was given us for a reason; everybody knows where to take a big job when there is no time to spare. But the figures following The Inquirer and The Republican do not embrace all. They do not include $549.50 for printing ballots, $300 of which the Republican received for the primary ballots and $249.50 of which the Inquirer received for the election ballots, and in this transaction alone the county paid $327.50 more than it would have had to pay had the bids asked for at the beginning of the term of that Board of Commissioners been allowed to stand.

Time after time have we called attention to these things. We have not waited "till just before election" and used them for political effect. We did not print a single set of ballots during the three years the Commissioners' office was controlled by Democrats. They asked for bids and we filed a bid but another paper was lower and got the work. We had no complaint to make. The county officials used business methods and we were too high because at that time we were not equipped as we are now.

We again congratulate the Commissioners on their coming to our way of thinking. They have seen the error of their way and seem to have sufficient backbone to correct their errors. But a short time ago they asked for bids for printing the Court Calendar for 1913. The Inquirer, which had been receiving $15 for each court, when the books were not printed by The Republican, which received the same price, put in a bid for $7.45, or less than half what they have been charging for years.

Is it, Mr. Taxpayer, not to your advantage when your financiers permit bidding on county printing? But The Inquirer, though its bid was less than half its long-established price, did not get the work and perhaps this is what is making the shoe pinch.

ELIE SHEETZ

Gave Bedford's Biggest Family Sixteen Pounds of Candy.

Elie Sheetz of Washington, D. C., the man who began his business career in Bedford, and who now owns and manages a string of fifteen candy stores: two in Washington, five in New York, one in Richmond, three in Chicago, one in Baltimore, one in Philadelphia, one in Cleveland and one in Lancaster, this state, having read in The Gazette that Mr. and Mrs. James H. Bagley, of Bedford, were the proud parents of fourteen living children, decided to begin the new year by filling sixteen "sweet tooth" with sixteen pounds of candy, so he expressed a one-pound box of his famous Martha Washington candy to each member of the family, including Father and Mother Bagley.

When the candy arrived the children danced and pranced and laughed, and said "thank you!" "thank you!" If Elie could have seen the happy faces and have caught the merry twinkle in the twenty-eight grey eyes when his Martha Washington candy was spread before them, he certainly would have shouted: "By George, Jim, you have a happy, appreciative family!"

The next baby (the fifteenth) that Doctor Stork brings to the Bagley home will be a prize baby, as Mr. Sheetz has agreed to give the new baby $5, and he will double the prize if old Doc Stork decides to fetch twins.

SURELY BANISHES CATARRH

You can't kill them with stomach medicine or sprays because they can't get where germs are.

You can kill these germs with Booth's HYOMEL, a penetrating, antiseptic, balsamic air that you breathe a few times a day directly over the raw, sore, seamy, inflamed membrane. It does not contain morphine or any habit forming drug.

For catarrh, croup, coughs, and colds. HYOMEL is sold on money back plan by F. W. Jordan, Jr. Complete outfit, $1.00. Extra bottles of Booth's HYOMEL if afterwards needed, only 50 cents. Just breathe it—no stomach dosing.

Men's Meeting

The Church of God at Saxton will hold a men's meeting on Sunday, January 19, at 2:30 p. m. An excellent program is being prepared. An address will be delivered by Hon. P. B. Cuthall of Huntingdon, Prof. Barney of Danville and the pastor. An urgent request is extended to non-churchgoers to attend this service as the addresses will be of special interest to them. Music will be furnished by the male quartet.

Revival services are being held by the Church of God at Saxton. Services every evening at 7:30. Last Sunday evening the house was crowded and much interest was manifested. The pastor, Rev. F. W. McGuire, extended the right hand of fellowship to seven new members. Preaching and joint council next Sunday morning. Charles Rickard will preach at Coalport at 2:30.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Communication From Correspondent at National Capital

REVENUE ON LUXURIES

Is to Be the Basis of the Tariff Revision in the 63rd Congress—Less Tax on Necessities.

Washington, January 15.—We want to get a large amount of revenue on luxuries, so that we can put a less tax on the necessities of life.

This is to be the basis of the tariff revision in the Sixty-Third Congress, according to Chairman Underwood of the Democratic Ways and Means Committee. The above expression is Mr. Underwood's. He made it directly to one of the big silk manufacturers who was testifying before his committee.

The indications are that a feature of the Democratic policy is likely to be free dressed and rough lumber, shingles, laths and fence posts. The members of the Ways and Means Committee, while asking questions of witnesses, appeared to be in favor of that policy.

Free meats, it is rumored, may also be a part of the tentative tariff plan the committee will frame to submit to the extra session.

The very air in the corridors outside of the committee room seems to breathe a feeling that the Democratic leaders intend to see to it that the promises made to the people before election are to be religiously carried out after election.

Why Fear Downward Revision?

High protectionists declare even the slightest tariff revision downward would hurt our business, and lessen our exports.

"The slightest revision downward will throw men out of work," is the cry of the multi-millionaire tariff trust heads who have been getting an ever-increasing amount of protection all these years while at the same time importing foreigners to take the places of American workers and paying their workers little more than a pittance.

Is there anything in the argument of the rich high protectionists? If they are right in their contention that some tariff revision would lessen our exports, one would naturally think that Great Britain, with free trade, would have perished long ago.

But Great Britain is not perishing. For the month of November the total amount of trade in Great Britain was $620,000,000. The increase in exports as compared with the "boom" figures of November, 1911, was $11,860,000! There is now full employment for labor in that "benighted" free trade kingdom. Even the protectionists are forced to admit "a cycle of splendid trade and national well-being," and that there is no protectionists country that shows a parallel prosperity.

There is food for reflection in these figures. They show there is nothing to the contention that revision downward of the tariff is likely to ruin business. Honest business men of the country fully realize this, and have no apprehensions because of Democratic ascendancy.

Grange Notes

Burning Bush Grange, No. 1544, P. of H., held their election of officers Tuesday evening, January 14, and re-elected all the old officers. This Grange is the last one organized in Bedford County and it is growing nicely.

Bald Hill Grange, No. 1397, will hold an oyster supper Saturday evening, January 18, at the Grange Hall near Lutzville. All are invited.

ENJOY PIG ROAST

Festive Occasion at Mountain View Hotel, New Baltimore.

It has been an annual custom of the Mountain View Hotel, New Baltimore, of which F. E. Straub is the genial proprietor, to give a pig roast and dance during the winter, and the occasion was enjoyed Thursday night of last week by the following:

David Deaner, Mrs. Zeta Ruby, James Bogn, LeRoy Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. William Hillegass, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Werner, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Topper, Mr. and Mrs. James Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Topper, Mrs. S. A. Topper, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Speicher, Bernard and Joseph Sutmler, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Speicher, Irwin Speicher and John Smith, of New Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Mowry, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mowry, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Shipley, Mr. and Mrs. George Rock, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dull, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Diehl, Mr. and Mrs. A. Kadison, Albert Fisher, George Turner, William Dull, and James and Jacob Diehl, of New Buena Vista; Mr. and Mrs. John Faint, of Fishertown; John B. Gillespie of Bedford, John and Edward Turner, John Scheller and Oscar Hollar, of Mann's Choice, and Mr. and Mrs. John S. Egolf of Schellsburg.

The feast over, the party went to the hall, where dancing was indulged in until the morning hours.

Elmer E. Corle, Agent. Persons desiring to become members of the Bedford County branch of the Women's Penna. S. P. C. A. will be welcomed by this society. The membership fee for one year is only one dollar. We would be able to do better work throughout the county if we had members in all the towns as well as in the country districts. Our secretary, Mrs. George Points, Bedford, will be glad to answer any letters coming to her in the interest of this society.

Mrs. Wm. F. White, President.

HOW OLD ARE YOU BY YOUR HAIR

You may be 30 in years, but if you are baldheaded or gray, people will surely take you to be many years older.

Dandruff is the root of all hair evils. If it were not for the little destructive germs working with a persistency worthy of a better cause there would be no baldness.

PARISIAN Sage, America's greatest hair restorer, will keep you looking young and attractive.

It is guaranteed by F. W. Jordan, Jr., to make hair grow and stop falling hair; to cure dandruff in two weeks; to stop itching of the scalp almost instantly.

PARISIAN Sage is the most invigorating, satisfying, and pleasant hair dressing made; it makes the hair soft, luxuriant and handsome; it is especially praised by women who love beautiful hair. 50 cents a bottle. Adv.

PIKEMEN OF OLD.

Their Ponderous Armor and Their Sixteen Foot Weapons.

The pikeman was covered with defensive armor, an iron headpiece, iron "back and breast" and "tassets," a kind of iron apron protecting him from waist to knee. He carried a pike sixteen feet long, with an ash shaft, an iron head and a blunt iron spike at the butt end, whereby to fix it in the ground, and, besides the pike, a rapier. The pike, from its great length, was a weapon which required deft handling in order to be of effective use and, as may be imagined, was excessively showy on parade. The modern lance exercise is a pretty sight enough, but the old pike exercise, perfectly executed by a large body of men, must have been superb. We are not surprised, therefore, to find that the postures or instructions for this exercise are extravagantly minute.

THE ANCIENT TRAVELER.

Outfit He Was Advised to Carry in the Eighteenth Century.

A small "Traveler's Guide," dated 1780, contains a good deal of serious advice as to the luggage which should be carried.

"Take," says the book, "two suits of clothes, one coffee colored and one blue; a chest fannel, a pair of leather breeches, a sleeping suit, three pairs of stockings, two pairs of gloves, two wigs, one hair bag (7), two caps, two hats, two pairs of shoes, one pair of slippers, six 'undershirts,' four 'overshirts,' six neckties, six collars, six handkerchiefs, four pairs of cuffs, three cravats, two pairs of cotton hose and two pairs of socks."

But this is not all, as is shown by the following items: "Take a Bible, a book of sermons; a 'Traveler's Guide,' two albums, a diary, a quire of white paper, quills and ink, an almanac, a mirror, a silver watch, a silver snuff box, a silver spoon, a pair of silver shoe buckles, a silver pin, three silver studs, a gold seal ring, a knife and fork with silver handles, a sewing case, an opera glass, a compass, a wax light and a tinder box, a toothbrush, a silver toothpick, a sword, a silver mounted cane, a padlock with which to fasten your door at night inside, a clothes brush, a box of medicine."—Fall Mall Gazette.

Marking a Book.

There's a dear old chap in this town—too gentle and too modest to put his name or profession into print—who administered a rebuke worth remembering to a young friend. The young man showed him a book in which certain passages were marked with pencil. The older man asked if he might borrow the book.

"I—I can't lend it," said the other. "I borrowed it myself."

"Ah! And who marked these passages?"

"I did."

"Oh, my boy! You shouldn't make penciled comments in a borrowed book."

Properly Boiled Meat.

To boil meat so as to retain the juices and soluble salts and yet cook it sufficiently it should be plunged into boiling water and boiled rapidly for about ten minutes. After this fast cooking the kettle must be pushed over to the back of the fire, where its contents will simmer gently. This tends to coagulate the outer rind of the meat so that the juices cannot escape. If meat is treated in this manner the inside will be found juicy and tender, but if the meat is allowed to boil it will be found hard and chippy, the goodness having all boiled out of it.

A Friend in Need.

"Had a queer experience recently," said the Billville poet. "Robber held me up on the highway. Didn't have a cent in my pockets, only a poem which I was taking to the editor."

"Didn't take the poem, did he?"

"No. Read three lines of it, handed it back to me and said: 'Friend, here's $2. You need it worse than I do.'"

Atlanta Constitution.

Hard to Swallow.

"If you make any noise," threatened the holdup man, "I'll stuff this handkerchief in your mouth."

The victim regarded it with a ghastly smile.

Scribner's Magazine
The February number of Scribner's Magazine continues the notable special numbers begun last year. This one is called, "The Day of the Motor," and shows how life, particularly in the United States, is being modified and enriched through the spread of motors from the few to the many. Farming life in the great West has been socially mitigated by it, the suburban life near cities has increased its area threefold. This number will have articles describing travel in America and in Europe, and one article of great interest showing the growth of motor-building as an industry.

He was a devoted husband, a kind father, an upright citizen and a consistent member of the Claysburg Lutheran Church, where interment will be made in the adjoining cemetery.

Rainsburg

January 14—Carl Fisher of this place met with quite an accident last Friday morning. He started for Bedford driving four horses and as he was going down what is known as Harclerode's Hill, the horses started to run. The one horse fell under the tongue and the other three drug it for quite a distance when Mr. Fisher at last succeeded in stopping his team. The horse that fell was so badly injured it had to be killed. It was a valuable horse and is quite a loss to Mr. Fisher.

The stone crusher was moved into our town today, which means there will be quite an improvement on our streets.

EXHIBITING DRESSED POULTRY AND EGGS.

Until recently no fairs nor poultry shows have encouraged the exhibition of dressed poultry and table eggs, two points where Uncle Sam's shows are far behind England, Ireland, Denmark, France, Belgium and even Canada.

Such exhibits have mostly been shown by students at our agricultural colleges, the fairs and poultry shows mainly encouraging the fancy, being "dedicated to fanciers, who appreciated the beautiful in standard bred fowls—the people whose ideas are not based upon pounds of flesh and dozens of eggs."

But the people who raise these pounds of meat add delicious eggs for

EXHIBIT OF DRESSED POULTRY.

The feeding of the nation are the vast majority, who, while they love beauty, will not sacrifice juicy flesh and fine eggs for fancy feathers, five point combs and long rooster tails.

This great majority, on which the poultry industry depends, has had little opportunity hitherto to exhibit its practical products in competition, and the utility side has received scant recognition.

However, there is a change. The American Poultry association, after years of urging, is now issuing a utility standard, its standard of perfection for the promotion of the fancy having been issued, with frequent revisions, since 1874.

The shows and fairs are beginning to realize that feathers aren't the whole chicken, and a number are now offering premiums for utility exhibits. The great Allentown fair, Pennsylvania, perhaps the largest fair show in America, taking the lead this year, with an exhibit of over 1,000 fancy eggs and an egg laying competition, in which only farm stock, mixed or pure, was allowed to compete.

The high cost of living is making people more practical and soon utility exhibits will crowd out fancy feathers. Such exhibits are educative. They set a standard. They mean more and

For better poultry products. They inspire competitors to finer effort. We hope to see more of them at the county fairs. These chief aim should be to encourage production of the useful.

The Allentown fair charged no entry fee for eggs, offered liberal premiums and judged the eggs according to the following excellent plan.

Farm eggs had their own competition, and each breed of thoroughbred poultry had its own egg competition. Then sweepstake prizes went to the best dozen of brown shelled and the best dozen of white shelled eggs. The winners were: Quality, 30, 100, 200, 300, 400, 500, 600, 700, 800, 900, 1000, 1100, 1200, 1300, 1400, 1500, 1600, 1700, 1800, 1900, 2000, 2100, 2200, 2300, 2400, 2500, 2600, 2700, 2800, 2900, 3000, 3100, 3200, 3300, 3400, 3500, 3600, 3700, 3800, 3900, 4000, 4100, 4200, 4300, 4400, 4500, 4600, 4700, 4800, 4900, 5000, 5100, 5200, 5300, 5400, 5500, 5600, 5700, 5800, 5900, 6000, 6100, 6200, 6300, 6400, 6500, 6600, 6700, 6800, 6900, 7000, 7100, 7200, 7300, 7400, 7500, 7600, 7700, 7800, 7900, 8000, 8100, 8200, 8300, 8400, 8500, 8600, 8700, 8800, 8900, 9000, 9100, 9200, 9300, 9400, 9500, 9600, 9700, 9800, 9900, 10000.

DON'TS.

Do not use a salt that fits the hens' feet. Do not expect hens not to lay. Do not expect the soil is full of grubworms.

"TO BE OR NOT TO BE!"

The hen stood on the lousy nest. Where mites had on her feet. And, gazing round the bughouse coop, She shook her head and said:

"With lice joy riding down my back, Mites chewing me at night, And microbes waiting for a chance To make of me a bite,

"And bad smells floating all around, Rats gobbling all my feed, It surely is discouraging And makes my poor heart bleed.

"With cholera in the air I breathe, Dread rous germs drawing near And naught to feed my egg machine How can I lay in here?"

"To be or not to be!" like me, Cried Hamlet in his lay. Perhaps the best thing I can do Is to put myself away.

"Oh, no; I'll not take rough on rats Nor shoot me with a gun. I'll simply cross the public road Where automobiles run.

"And so goodbye! The die is cast. The car fleeds never miss. A speeding car, a little jar—Presto—I'm out of this!"

C. M. BARNITZ.

TO FILL THE WINTER EGG BASKET.

Winter is when many wonder why their hens don't lay. They get gobs of eggs in the cheap season, but get left when the winter egg brings the long green. If these disappointed folks investigate and find what their hens get in the warm season that they lack now and furnish the same or a good substitute the problem is solved. They will discover that spring and summer afford variety; that, beside grains fed, the hen has succulent greens, juicy worms and bugs and exercise, and thus the ration is well balanced between protein and carbohydrates so that the hen gets plenty of egg maker and body builder.

Now, let sprouted oats, cut clover, alfalfa, cabbage, beets, substitute for greens; fresh cut bone, or beef scrap represent bugs and worms and a grain ration of equal parts wheat, oats and corn and a crumbly mash of equal parts wheat midds, ground oats, ground corn and two parts bran be the remainder. These coupled with exercise for the grain in litter, and you have a winter menu we have never seen fail for lots of eggs.

Try this for a day's fare: At dawn scatter a good handful of grain for each hen in the litter and two for the rooster; at 10 feed plenty of greens. Cut clover and alfalfa go best steamed in the mash. Raw vegetables are best for hens. At noon serve cut bone feed sparingly at first. At 4 serve crumbly mash all they want. Beef scrap, about 10 per cent of bulk, is best fed in mash and should be soaked awhile before mixing. Of course this quantity isn't arbitrary. Hen's appetite and condition must be guided. There should always be some grain in litter to reward her efforts.

These remarks do not apply to hens housed on the "hogpen plan," to "artificially diluvian" relics nor to birds of the fat Biddy bustle style. To make them lay use the as.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

The word "bill" is applied to the mouth of water fowl, though some term this part of the duck the "scoop shovel." "Beak" is applied to the mouth of other poultry.

English fanciers are trying to revive interest in the Game. As he dare not be bred for cock fights, they are advocating that this bird be turned loose in the forests to breed like the jungle fowl, and they claim that in a few years he will regain the power to fly and make as good sport as pheasant hunting.

The market demands that capons have no combs, so it is the practice at time of operation to dub the birds. In doing this start at the back and cut front, and cut even with the skull and make a smooth job of it.

A single poultry farm in New Jersey marketed 1,214,478 eggs last year, and a reliable firm of accountants investigated their claims and found the owners made $19,484.83 profits in a single year. As the American hen is a money maker when treated right.

Pumpkins are enjoyed by the hens in winter and should be cut in half and hung up in the coop. The soft, sweet meat helps to make their crops spongy. They have a feeding value, are cheap and beneficial.

Joseph Gulick, a notorious Pennsylvania chicken thief, was recently shot while stealing chickens and sent to the Eastern penitentiary for a minimum term of six and a maximum term of eleven years, plus $100 fine and costs. This is his ninth conviction for chicken stealing, and many think he should be sentenced to an insane asylum for life.

A cross of the African and Canadian goose is declared by New England epicures to be the best table rubberneck yet invented. The offspring of the mating is a "mule"—it cannot reproduce.

There is much to be learned at the fairs and shows about modern poultry culture, and it is at these many determine to keep better poultry and others get the inspiration to go into the business. These exhibitions are becoming a wonder for size and beautiful quality and are a great help to the advancement of this great branch of agriculture.

A committee of three was appointed by the American Poultry association to investigate the extent of the United States government's co-operation with poultrymen. We are curious to know just how much the government is doing to promote the billion dollar poultry industry and hope the committee gets all the facts.

The Carpet Cure.

Matrimony reduced the Smith household until there was nothing left of it but the old couple, neither of whom looks old enough to be in the father and mother in law class. When Bessie got married Papa Smith took possession of her room, and it has been his study, library, smoking room and growlery since then, and its condition made the life of his otherwise happy wife a burden. "Since he has his room," she complained, "John has developed a passion for disorder which would break a housekeeper's heart." "Is there a carpet on the floor?" she was asked. "No." "Is there a rug?" "No; he wouldn't have one." "Well, surprise him and have a carpet put down," was her friend's advice, and it was followed. "He was a little surprised to find it," said the woman, "but from that day the floor has not been littered, there's more order on the desk and the place looks tidy. John doesn't know it, but he could serve as a living specimen of the carpet cure."—New York Tribune.

MONEY A NATION'S SYMBOL.

Its Appearance Reflects the Character of Its People.

The form taken by money in each country is a curiously accurate indication of the character and tastes of the inhabitants thereof, writes James Dayvenot Wheelpley in the Century. The stately English banknote of splendid workmanship and uncompromising severity, the German note with its rude proportions and droid style of finish, the American certificate of most convenient size, perfect workmanship, crispness of design and with the glint of the metal it stands for; the slovenly Italian paper money, dirty, carelessly cut and to be carefully inspected before it is accepted as genuine, and then the beads and shells of the savage.

There is no better illustration of this reflective character than the money of France. Carefully adjusted in size to fit the wallet carried by every careful Frenchman—and all Frenchmen are careful of money—due of texture, artistic in design and light and delicate in coloring, it possesses a toughness beside which the money of other nations looks cold and brutal. In the same way the French show fineness and subtlety in their manner of living, their loves and hates, their crimes, their politics, their fighting, and even in their trade and manufacturing. They have no real competitors in this.

HEED THE WARNING!

Backache is the Signal That Kidney Diseases are Nigh.

Who doesn't dread the advanced stages of kidney trouble—Bright's disease, dropsy and gravel?

But today, throughout America, there are tens of thousands suffering the torments of hopeless agony just because they failed to heed the first signal, the certain warning of future misery—backache.

Backache means that your kidneys are weak.

Stop kidney disease at the start, that's the easiest way, and Thompson's Barosma is the surest remedy.

Ed. D. Heckerman sells it, and is willing to guarantee it to stop backache, headache and sharp, shooting pains, and to cure Bright's disease, and any and all kidney, liver and bladder trouble, or money back.

It is a great maker of pure blood, and a builder of flesh, because it promptly cleans the kidneys and puts them in such perfect condition that the impurities are thoroughly strained from the blood as it makes through, and are promptly eliminated with the urine. Thompson's Barosma is only 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle. Advertisement.

EASY TO GUESS IT.

What Do You Think Is the Answer to This Puzzle Question?

With the rent six weeks in arrears Scribbler sat trembling lest the landlady should hear the beating of his heart and call for a reckoning. Presently there reached his ears the sound of fierce words, as of two striving together in deadly argument. Scribbler became aware that Mr. and Mrs. Slumpkins were engaged in unraveling one of their domestic tangles.

At length there came a light tap on the door.

Scribbler looked toward the window as a possible avenue of escape. "However, before he could make up his mind to try the rainspout route the door opened cautiously, and first Slumpkins' bald head appeared and then the rest of him crept slowly in.

In a whisper he advised Scribbler not to pay Mrs. Slumpkins, inasmuch as she was not the head of the house.

Scribbler acquiesced and Slumpkins disappeared.

A little later another rap on the door, this time more insistent, caused Scribbler to look up. It was Mrs. Slumpkins. "Say, don't pay my old man any more, Mr. Scribbler. He won't do nothing but drink it up. This morning I had to let him know who runs this house. We ain't speaking to each other now."

Again Scribbler acquiesced.

That was six months ago. They haven't spoken to each other yet, and Scribbler goes on his way rejoicing.

Puzzle question: What will be the first question they ask when they start speaking again?—Satire.

TINY ELECTRIC IONS.

Science Says They Are the Smallest Units in the World.

We used to think that about the smallest thing in the world was an atom of hydrogen. In fact, it was taken as the unit by which the atomic weight of all metals was expressed. For instance, the smallest possible division of the metal lead was found to be 206 times that of hydrogen, gold 196 times, etc.

Hand in hand, however, with the modern conception of the nature of the electric current, has come a new conception of infinitude in small things. Now, they say, the smallest thing in the world divisible by the hand of man is the electric ion. This is the individual unit of electricity, the moving part of a current when it passes through a wire. It is so small that it can run through a copper bar at a speed of 180,000 miles a second without turning corners. Electric ions trickle through a copper wire in much the same way as grains of sand through a sieve.

Scientists, armed with instruments considerably finer than grocery store scales, have isolated and measured them, and found that their relation to that lightest of all gases, hydrogen, is as one to the seventeenth power of ten, or, in other words, the fraction representing their relation to an atom of hydrogen is expressed by a million-million-millionth. — Chicago Record-Herald.

Generous Soul.

"Now, Jim," said the old lady to her son, who was about to leave the countryside to try his luck in London, "there's plenty of money in that big city, for the streets are said to be even paved with gold."

Jim "had his doubts," but these were quickly removed, for he had barely got out of Euston station when, to his surprise, he espied slyly reposing on the kerb a bright, glittering sovereign. Eagerly he picked it up and walked a little farther on, when he came across a blind man who was begging.

At once his sympathetic heart went out to the unfortunate man, and as he put the sovereign into his hand he said: "Take this, my friend. I can see 'em, that can't!"—London Globe.

Scared Both of Them.

When Justice Maule was on the bench a bullying counsel was one day browbeating an elderly female witness in a case before him. Having badgered her into a state of utter speechlessness, the lawyer appealed to the judge to make her answer his questions. "Why do you not answer, madam?" asked the judge. "Because, my lord, he scares me so," replied the trembling woman. "So does he me, m'am," said the judge. —Law Notes.

Like the Mythical Dragon.

In the Malay archipelago is a reptile much like the mythical dragon. It has false ribs that extend the loose skin and form its wings. There is also a frog with spreading feet that makes a parachute which enables it to flit from tree to tree, and a flying lemur that can spread out its whole body like an umbrella and leap and fly a hundred feet at a time, from the top of one tree to another.

Preaching and Practice.

"Isn't it horrid!" remarked Mrs. Swoitly to her friend—"Isn't it horrid, that men will put these nasty old pipes into their mouths?"

"Yes," said her friend emphatically, "he stooped and tenderly kissed the black face of her pet pug—"yes, indeed it is."—Pearson's.

A Suggestion.

"John," said Mrs. Slithers, "will I get a set of resolutions passed on our Civic Society yesterday?"

"I really don't know, my dear," said Slithers. "Why don't you have the embroidered?"—Judge.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson III.—First Quarter, For Jan. 19, 1913.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Gen. iii.—Memory Verses, 17-19—Golden Text, John viii, 34—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

In chapters I and II we have seen the only absolutely perfect man and woman that ever walked this earth, in a perfect paradise without sin, God Himself their companion and friend and their having dominion over all things. There is no such glorious reality mentioned as existing on earth again till we come to the record of the new earth in Rev. xxi, but a great and unceasing conflict between God and His and our great adversary, the devil, to whom we are introduced in today's lesson. It is interesting to note that we have the beginning of his record in Gen. iii and the end thereof in Rev. xx, the third chapter from the end of the Bible. In this lesson we have the first mention of the devil, of unbelief, of sin, of suffering, and also of a deliverer, a redemption and a great restoration. An understanding of this chapter helps greatly to understand the whole Bible.

This great adversary is described in Rev. xii, 9; xx, 2, as the great dragon, that old serpent, called the devil and Satan, who deceiveth the whole world. He is also called the god of this world, the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that now worketh in the children of disobedience (II Cor. iv, 4; Eph. ii, 2). The whole world is said to be under his control (I John v, 19). The Lord Jesus said of him, "The prince of this world cometh and hath nothing in me" (John xiv, 30). In this his first appearance after Adam was given the dominion over the earth he used the serpent, which was then evidently the wisest and probably most beautiful of all creatures beneath man, afterward condemned because of this partnership to go prone on the earth (verse 14).

Notice in verses 1-5 that in the devil's first recorded utterance, "Yea, hath God said?" he questions the word of God, and in the words following he questions the love of God. In verse 4 he makes God a liar (compare 2-17) and in verse 5 sets before Eve an ambition to be as God. Those who in any way talk or act thus show at once in whose employ they are. To all such, however they may pose as servants of Christ, unless they truly repent, our Lord tells us that He will say to them, "I never knew you; depart from Me" (Matt. vii, 23, 29). Verse 6 reminds us of I John, 2-16, the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, the pride of life, all of which are of the world and not of God. With all that they needed, all fullness from the hand of God, Adam and Eve fell. But with hunger and loneliness, under the same temptations, the last Adam resisted the devil and overcame him.

By the same sword of the Spirit we may overcome (Eph. vi, 16, 17). See some of the results of sin—fear, trying to hide from God, the man blaming God for the gift of the woman, fig leaf aprons a substitute for garments of light and glory. Inasmuch as the minding of the flesh is death (Rom. viii, 6, margin), they died that day, as God had said they would. This is the first "afraid" in the Bible and the first attempt to hide from God. Contrast all the "fear nots" and the life hid with Christ in God. Note the first question of God, "Where art thou?" (verse 9) and see the Good Shepherd seeking His lost sheep.

When all is confessed then God begins to speak and act on their behalf and to reveal His eternal purpose. There is a curse upon the serpent and upon the ground and sorrow predicted for the woman and the man (4-19). The Old Testament as we have it ends with the word "curse," but in the last chapter of the New Testament we read, "There shall be no more curse" (Rev. xxii, 3), and the reason why is given in Gal. iii, 13—Christ made a curse for us. The thorns of verse 18 take us also to Golgotha, or rather, to Jesus before Pilate, and then to Rom. viii, 20-23, where we see Him who wore the crown of thorns redeeming the earth. Lesson verse 15 shows the great Deliverer as the seed of the woman, born of a virgin, suffering at the hands of the adversary, but finally conquering him. Here is also the salvation of Eve, for enmity between the sinner and the devil is an evidence of salvation. It is the work of God, "I will put."

The method of salvation is fully set forth in verse 21, where we see the Lord God shedding blood, probably of lambs, and by skins thus obtained providing redemption clothing for Adam and Eve instead of the leaf aprons of their own making. The guilty pair can do nothing but drop their own efforts and accept God's provision, in which we simply and clearly set forth the shedding of the blood of the lamb of God on Golgotha in due time.

When we receive His righteousness instead of our own then we may sing: "He hath clothed me with the garments of salvation. He hath covered me with the robe of righteousness" (Isa. lxi, 10). The resurrection and future glory of the redeemed may be seen in verse 24 and are fully set forth in a booklet on "The Tree of Life and the Cherubim," which may be obtained at 5 cents each or 50 cents a dozen by addressing D. M. S., box 216, Harrisburg, Pa. I have been praising God for over thirty years for the blessing obtained through those articles.

AN EGYPTIAN RECIPE

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.

If Farmer John Stone hadn't been a widower, if he hadn't been a bald-headed, whiskerless man, if he hadn't been in love with the Widow Davis, things might have been different. When he told her that he loved her her reply was:

"John, you are a good man, but"—
"But what is it, Mary?"
"You are baldheaded and have no whiskers."

"But I love you."
"That can't make up for it. I repeat that you are a good man, but when I think that I would have to sit here evening after evening and stare at your shiny poll it is too much."

"I—I thought if a man loved"—
"But there are the whiskers or the lack of them. No man can look dignified without 'em. Your character is all that a woman could ask for, but where is the hair? Where the whiskers?"

John Stone turned away in chagrin and despair, and there was no sleep for him for the next three nights. He was still in the dumps when a tin peddler came along and invited him to open his heart. He did so.

"Say, John, it was mean of the widow," said the peddler when he had listened to all.

"Yes, kinder."
"Kinder? Why, man, she has wrecked your life."

"Has she?"
"You want to turn around and wreck the widow?"
"But how can I do it?" asked John.

"First of all, get mad at her. Say to yourself that you don't care a darn for her."

"Well, I'm feeling that way. She can go to Texas!"
"Bully for you! Now, then, you know that we peddlers take all kinds of things in trade. The other day I raked in an Egyptian mummy for $4 worth of milk pans. You know what a mummy is, don't you?"

"Some one that's been dead a thousand years."

"Exactly. When I ripped him open I found this paper."

"By George!" gasped John.
"It is writ in Egyptian, but I can read it right off. It's a recipe for making hair grow on bald heads."

"You don't say."
"And for forcing whiskers to grow on the smoothest face. It says that one month's use of it will grow side whiskers on a boy of ten."

"You can't mean it."
"You can have the preparation put up at a drug store and begin to use it, and in a month what happens? Why, you have a luxuriant crop of curly hair on your bald head and chin whiskers that fall down to your waist and are blown to port and starboard by the breezes. You can walk up and down the road in front of the widow's house. From the window she sees you and knows she has made the mistake of her life. She calls to you to admit that she was in the wrong and that you can bring the preacher as soon as you please, but you wave her aside."

"And what?"
"And you wave her aside and go along to the Widder Stevens and propose marriage to her and hustle things along. She dotes on curly hair and chin whiskers, and will say yes at once."

"By George, but it will be great!"
"It will for sure."
"And you'll do this out of the goodness of your heart?"

"I'll do it for one-half goodness and the other half cash. The cash half is $25. Those chin whiskers alone are worth $100 to any living man."

No farmer is ready to pay out money unless he can see a return for it. Farmer Stone asked for a week to consider the matter and then closed the deal. It wasn't humanly possible for a baldheaded, whiskerless man to hold out. The formula was copied off for him, and he deposited it in a safe place until he could spare a day to go to the village. That day never came. He was killed by accident in his own field.

Then came an interval of seven years during which time nothing was said in his late community about baldheaded men. One day a stranger appeared who had heard from the peddler that John Stone had the Egyptian recipe and he offered $3 for it. One of the widower's heirs found it in an old trunk and took the money.

The next heard of the recipe was by advertisement. A coffee and tea house, instead of giving out trading stamps advertised to grow hair and whiskers for the buyer of every pound of tea or coffee.

They sent a lot of wagons through the country to herald the news by word of mouth, and the highways were plastered with posters, and the weekly papers reaped whole pages of advertising. The campaign was brief, but vigorous.

All those who got the recipes were directed to a certain drugist to have them filled. The drugist was a hustler and sent the stuff away by the scores and hundreds of bottles and made 400 per cent profits. At the end of ten or twelve weeks there were 600 baldheads in one county alone, and the number of burned and blistered chins and cheeks was a full thousand.

The headline marking John Stone's grave was a rather stingy affair. After the exposure it was replaced by a better one, and the obituary was added to as follows:

"He had neither hair nor whiskers, but he was a lucky man!"

A COLD BLOODED DUEL.

Instant Death Was Assured For One of the Contestants.

An extraordinary duel, which at the time created an immense sensation was one in which the decision was arrived at not by swords or pistols, but by means of a deadly poison.

The men—who, it is hardly necessary to say, had fallen out over a lady—had left the arrangement of details to their seconds, and until they faced each other they did not know by what method they were to settle their differences.

One of the seconds was a doctor, and he had made up for the occasion four black pellets, all identical in size and shape.

"In one of these," he said, "I have placed a sufficient quantity of prussic acid to cause the almost instantaneous death of any one who swallows it. We will decide by the toss of a coin which of you is to have first choice, and you will alternately draw and swallow a pill until the poison shows its effects."

Two of the pellets were then taken as the toss had decided, but without effect in either case.

"This time," said the doctor, speaking of the two pellets remaining, "you must be" swallow the pill at the same instant."

The choice was again made, and in a few seconds one of the men lay dead on the grass—Pall Mall Gazette.

CANARIES ARE NERVOUS.

And They Dread Mice That Like to Steal Their Bird Seed.

One of the common troubles with canaries is that of nervousness. The nervous system of a canary is as highly sensitive as that of a delicate woman. Any sudden shock to their senses, whether of sight or sound, is liable to throw them into convulsions, that often result in death. An old bird dealer mentions a frequent but rarely known cause of sickness and even death among the little creatures.

"I had two canaries," he said, "that for some reason I could not discover fell into a frightfully nervous state and started to pine away. I doctored them with all the remedies known to bird lore, but the poor creatures continued to droop in dismal decline. At last I discovered the trouble. It was mice."

"Mice are as fond of bird seeds as canaries themselves. In the darkness of the night the mice would creep through the bars of the cage and devour the seeds, while the poor little canaries sat above shivering themselves into a state of nervous prostration from the very terror of the monsters below. I removed the cage to a position where the mice could not get at it, and my pets rapidly recovered."

One Sin of Housekeeping.

The ultimate sin of the housekeeping code is straightening things out in a desk or on a table. When I depart from my quarters in the morning my sitting room table looks self possessed and homelike, bearing three ash trays, four or five books, matches, a pipe, a can of tobacco, papers, magazines, pencils, pens, a letter or two, a bottle of ink and maybe a necktie or so. A place for everything and everything just where it ought to be easy to reach or thereabouts. But, alas, on return what a state that table is in. The books have been put back on the shelves, the ash trays mobilized, pen and pencils arranged in orderly lines, neckties stuck away in a dresser and the letters planted in the most conspicuous place with those containing bills uppermost.—Toledo Blade.

Pliny's Jewel Stories.

Pliny declared that a diamond was so hard that if placed on an anvil and struck with a sledge hammer it would give back a blow of such force as to shiver both anvil and hammer to pieces. Another of his wonderful tales states that "on the shore of the island of Cyprus there was a stone lion having eyes formed of emeralds, which shone so brightly that all the fishes were ingloriously frightened away. The fishermen accordingly pulled the emeralds out and put in glass eyes instead, whereupon the wise fishes became bolder and returned to their accustomed nets."

His Income.

"They say you get 250 marks a month. I can't believe it. Tell me how."

"I get 110 marks salary; then I don't pay my rent, 40 marks; that's 150 marks; I owe the milkman 30 marks, that's 180 marks; my butcher 40 marks, 220 marks, and every month I raise 30 marks out of my friends, making an income of 250 marks a month!"—Fliegende Blätter.

Strychnine?

"Say, Maria, have you noticed how this infernal cat jumps in my lap every time I sit down to read?"
"Yes, Well, I suppose the poor thing is tired."

"Well, the next time I go to the drug store I'll get something (biff) for that tired feline."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Ford Vanadium Steel

And the highest priced steel---Vanadium---used anywhere in the automobile construction goes into its making.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars were spent in perfecting Ford Vanadium steel---the lightest, toughest, strongest steel known.

A bar of this steel one-half inch thick and weighing eight pounds is stronger than a bar of ordinary steel one inch thick and weighing sixteen pounds.

It is economy for the Ford Motor Company to use this high-priced, fine grained steel in all Ford construction as it doubles the life of the car---lessens by half the number of repairs---and multiplies by two its general serviceableness.

The Ford's wonderful lightness and surprising strength are due to Vanadium Steel.

Shark Oil is Used

It is a known fact that some cod liver oil from the warmer fishing banks is adulterated with oil from the shark and haddock, and sold in many places for medicinal purposes. Unfortunately this fact is not known by small producers who procure it in good faith from a jobber who in turn purchased it from a dealer, etc., etc., with the ultimate result that the consumer is the real sufferer.

There is one way, however, to be absolutely sure that this popular medicinal oil is of superior undefiled quality and that is by following physicians' example and insisting on the pure, genuine Scott's Emulsion, the makers of which import their oil direct from the northern coast of Norway in sealed metal containers, and the oil is then tested to insure its purity.

Price Collier, who has spent many months in Berlin, will describe in the February Scribner the accustomments, the occupations, and the social distinctions and drawbacks of the capital of the German Empire. He gives first-hand information in regard to this most modern city of modern Europe.

A Promise and a Performance

One year ago, on January 1, The Pittsburgh Post took its readers into its confidence and told of its aims and hopes for 1912.

The success which has come to The Pittsburgh Post during the last 12 months has come by fair means.

We have made as good a newspaper as we knew how, fair in its politics, fair in its policy, clean and generous in its news columns. Many newspaper readers do not fully realize what it costs a newspaper to be clean in its advertising columns and forego the money its contemporaries not only accept, but seek. Other Pittsburgh newspapers print advertising not one line of which could appear in The Pittsburgh Post under any conditions, no matter what the price.

But there is a reward---the success which The Pittsburgh Post has made is almost incredible. The gain in advertising was 916,566 lines.

Let those who will say the public is unappreciative. We know better. To those who helped our 1912 success we say this, "All that we did in 1912 we shall do in 1913---and more."

Small Beginnings

The history of great fortunes shows how financial success may have its start in a small beginning. But the beginning must be made. Many a deposit of $1.00 has grown into an account of $1,000.00 or more. Your deposit, however small, will receive courteous attention at this bank.
